Mr THOMAS SANDEMAN, Perth.

JOHN STERHOUSE, Efg: Edinburgh.

Mr HARRY LUMSDEN, Aberdeen.
It is acknowledged on every fide, that the equitable fyrthem upon which Infurances against Fire are now effected, freed from harsh clauses or unreasonable deductions, has been formally a compared to the compar fecured to the public by the liberal plan of this Company, and the office has, in return, been honoured with uncommon marks of public approbation, as the rapid extension of its business fully proves.

 The Public are requested to observe, that this Company is not founded on the principle of the Contributionship Societies, in which persons insured are liable for the losses of others, but that, on the contrary, the Policies of this office contain a full engagement to pay the whole amount of any losses furtained; for which purpose, the Company at all times holds in readiness a fund in Government fecurities, as ample, in proportion to its engagements, as that of any Infurance Company in Great Britain.

23 Printed propofals, containing the rates of Infurance, and full information of the rules, may be had gratis at the house of every agent.

HOUSE OF COMMONS. MONDAY, March 6.

WENT through in Committee, with feveral a-mendments, the bill for punishing mutiny and defer-

The House having then resolved itself into a Committee on the shop-tax, Mr A. M. Taylor in the chair, the Chancellor of the Exchequer presented feveral resolutions. Mr Le Mesurier and Mr Joliffe faid a few words on the alterations, after which the refelutions passed without emendation.

Previous to the House going upon the supplies Mr Joliffe wished to know how the money voted last year had been applied.

Captain Lutterell wished him to explain precisely to the House the meaning of his question. For as he understood it, what he meant to offer in the Committee would be a full answer.

Captain Lutterell then rose to state the estimates of the Ordnance. Those he made out at consider ably less than last year; the ordinaries being lower by 90,000 l. and the extraordinaries by 50,000 l. The Ordnance also was without debt, and had no extra charges. The plans and operations, however, in which the Board was engaged, were likely to ex ceed these estimates hereafter. Captain Lutterell flated the expence of foreign fervice, but called the attention of the House in particular to the works going forward at Fort Monckton, and those at Portsmouth. He then moved, that the fum of 296,000 i. be granted to his Majesty for the estimate of the fortifications were to be carried on at Portsmouth. The Chancellor of the Exchequer Stated, that the House had already decided that question; but he begged to call their attention to this particular, how far the House was pledged by that vote to complete the old by an abandonment of the new fystem. This he confessed himself not perfectly satisfied in, and he referred it therefore to the decision of the House. Mr Holdsworth stated great excesses arising from an increase of the Corps of Engineers, and the Corps of the Royal Artillery.

Mr Taylor, wished to know whether any farther

Sir Groy Corper faid, the fifty thousand pounds which lay in the Treasury unappropriated, would come with more propriety under discussion in the Committee of ways and means.

Mr Fox contended, that the House had no right to share the responsibility connected with the executive power of the state.

Col. Norton apologized for the vote he had given against the fortifications. Captain Macbride vindicated the conduct of the fea officers in the opinion they had given on that fub-

Sir H. Harbord did not think the Ordnance expenditure conducted with economy.

Mr Hammet faid a variety of handsome things of the noble Duke at the head of the Ordnance.

Capt. Lutterell also entered at large into a vindition of the noble Duke. He reprobated the freedom that had been used with his Grace, and pointed so much of his animadversion to Capt. Macbride, that every one felt the allufion. He cautioned the Hon. Gentleman against dealing in personalties, and using a language in which every Chimney-Sweeper would excel him.

Captain Macbride appealed to the House that the Hon Gentleman combated a man of straw, as what he had faid did not apply to a fingle word which had fallen from him in the convertation alluded to.

Mr Dempster complained of fuch enormous estimates under a peace establishment. They exceeded the estimates during all the preceding wars, except the two last. He begged that ministers would recollect, that at present the people of this country had no enemies but the two per cents. the three per cents. the five per cents. and the long annuities. And it was the business of the House to provide against these.

Mr Sawbridge had heard the noble Duke pr for his economy, and his love of liberty. He had once thought well of him, but he had now changed his opinion, and he was in possession of facts which he thought rendered him culpable in both these refpects. He read a long feries of charge against him from a newspaper, which he said he could substantiate. And he added, that his Grace had open-ly, by the candidate's own confession from the Hu-flings, violated the freedom of election.

Mr Steele faid, the Hon. Gentleman's diflike of the Duke, as he had heard, arose from the noble Duke's difregarding a request of the Alerman's, who had written to him on a particular subject, but to which application no answer was returned.

Mr Sawbridge faid he had made no dechration but what he could prove. He dared the Hon. Gentleman to prove his. He protested he never had the honour of writing to the noble Duke is, his

After fome further conversation the motion was put and paffed.

A tedious debate then enfued on Mr Haltings's delinquency, and the propriety of granting fome pa pers moved for by Mr Burke. After much speechifying and explanation on both sides, the question relative to the papers was at last put, and the House divided, when there appeared

Mr Burke then proceeded to put his other motions for papers, which occasioned some further debate, after which the House adjourned.

The confols to be written in by ten initalments of 150 l. each. The first 150 l. to remain as a deposit, in case the confols should rife to above 75 l. For every subsequent 150 l. confols the subscriber will receive 50 l. in money, and a legal receipt for 50 tickets; fo that the tickets will be held very eay, till near the drawing of the Lottery. The plan feems to be much approved of in the city, as by means the Minister will be able to reduce a debt of 1,500,000 l. confols, for the present, with a sum of 500,000 l. only; and by the time the prizes of the Lottery become payable, there is no doubt but the finking fund will be firmly fixed and established. By this plan the public will fave 45,000 l. interest, on the 1,500,000 l. confols. (basides the 125,000 l. profit of the Lottery, which is faid to be appropriated for the Loyalists). The subscribers will have the advantage of disposing of their stock at 4 per cent. higher than the prefent market price, and fell the tickets with a profit of at least a pound per

Friday, M. A. Taylor, Efq; reported from the Committee on British Fisheries, the following reform lations :

That a duty of ten shillings per ton be laid upon every fhip (navigated according to law) importing any turbot, lobsters, or eels, into Great Britain.

That a duty of five pounds per thousand be laid upon all lampreys exported from Great Britain.

That a duty of five shillings be laid upon all lampreys exported in any thip not being British built.

That there be charged the like duties on all lampres exceeding the quantity of 2000, and upon all quiks exceeding the quantity of 36 bushels, export-

That upon all turbots, to inches from the eve to the tail, there shall be allowed a bounty of thirty fillings per score in the first three years ; twenty fillings the next year; and ten thillings in the year fllowing.

That a bounty of fifty pounds be allowed for the reatest number of turbots caught in any one year; y pounds for the next greatest number.

The amount of the expences attending the miliclothing, and pay of ferjeants, drums, contingencies, general and sub-division meetings, for the year 1775, was 151.323 l.—1776, 118,312 l.—1777, 114,978 l. To avoid, in part, this expence, is the reason Mr Pitt has refused his entire acquiescence to the new militia bill.

The Elector of Hanover's precipitate accellion to the German league must be attended with very serious consequences to this country. Whenever the Emperor hears of Frederick's death, he will immediately attempt Bavaria, and the British nation is then involved in all the horrors of war. That this is the opinion of Sir R. Murray Keith, our Ambaffador at Vienna, is well known to Ministers. Sin Robert, when he heard of the accession to the league, wrote home that the Emperor was in the utmost chagrin, and vowed that he would henceforth treat the English in a different manner to what he former-ly did. Sir Robert adds lately, that he is looked coldly on by Joseph ever fince that event-

ORDNANCE ESTIMATES. "Mr Taylor brought up the report upon the Ordnance estimates; which being moved for a fecond reading,

" Sir John Miller rose, and was proceeding to reprobate the idea of fortifying our docks, &c. when " Mr Rose interrupted him, and affured him, that, in the present estimates, there was not a fingle farthing on account of any fortifications, every idea of the kind having been abandoned fince the late vote against it.

" The motion was then put and agreed to.

" Mr Pitt informed the House, that, in confequence of the papers he had moved for being laid before the House, he now rose for the purpose of making a preliminary motion to the question he meant to bring forward on the fubject of finances He thought the best mode of coming at the true state of the nation, would be to submit the confideration of these papers to a select Committee of the House, by which they would be enabled to take a review of the real state of the country for the two last years, and to learn the refources it had. After the report that should be made from their refearches and opinion, which he trusted would be found to meet the expectations of the House, he should bring forward a motion for forming a bill thereon, for erecting a finking fund, for the reduction of the

" Mr Fox expressed his doubt whether the pa-pers already laid before the House would prove sufficient for coming at the real state of the nation.

"Sir Grey Cooper thought that a retrospect of two years would not be going back far enough, and recommended that it should be extended to three years, without which, he was of opinion, the true thate of the revenue could not be known.

"Mr Pill thought, that two years back would be far enough to go; and faid, that when he last year opened the budget, that opinion feerned to prevail. With respect to the papers not being sufficient for the purpose, he could only say, that when he committee should be the respect to the papers. Committee thould fit, they would be at liberty to call for more, if they should find it expedient.
"The motion was then made, by Mr Pitt for a

" Mr Pitt then moved, that the faid Committee should he ballotted for to-morrow; and the fame was accordingly agreed to.

"Mr Pye moved, that the order of the day for

going into a Committee on the militia bill, which flood for the next day, should be discharged, and postponed till Friday next, which was agreed to.

"Mr Francis after this rose, for the purpose, he said, of moving for brave to bring in a bill to explain and amend the bill paffed in the year 1786, for the better regulation of the Company's Servants in the East Indies. Mr. Francis, then took a very extensive review of the all offects that had, and were likely to result from the bill, and also of the general object of that he intended to move for.

"The House was exceedingly crouded, and a very long and interesting debate was expected to enfue; at the conclusion of which, it was thought that Mr Francis's motion would be rejected by confiderable majority, thouse the House be divided re Sheraten

To the Nobility and Gentry of Scotland.

It intercools of this ancient kingdom has maintained and effabilited her right to be the second dity of Great Britain, in magnitude, in nimbers of inflabilitants, politeness, accommodation, and anusement.

The dief indusements which formerly led people of condition to London, now operate in favour of Edinburgh; and there are but few things remaining, either of christity of entertainment, which can determine them to prefer the former. One entertainment, indeed, is yet wanting, equally calculated to have the jurgose of exercise or diversion, an entertainment/which by firing francers in broads to London, which experience has demonstrated to fair the humour and gunius of the people; and which fince its establishment, has added several elegant stretts to the environs of that city—Rerry person who has wifted the capital of Great Britain is equainted with the assembling of entertainments afforded Every person who has visited the capital of Great Britain is sequanted with the assemblage of entertainments assorbed by the Royal Circuftes and Assemblage of entertainments assorbed by the Royal Circuftes and Assemblages. Sale of Lands in Dumfries-shire.

Adjourned at define of perfons intending to offer.

To be SOLD, by public roup, within the Old Exchange Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, upon Friday, 28th April 1786, between the hours of 5 and 6 afternoon, The Lands of CRAIGIEBURN, with the Multures and Pertinents, lying within the parish of Mossar and sheriss of Dumfries. These lands hold of the Crown; the yearly rent, after payment of the flipend, is 74 l. 15 s. 8 d. and part of them is subset by the present tenant at an advanced lent of 15 l. The teinds are valued.

The fituation of these lands is remarkably beautiful, within two miles of Mossat. There is easy access to the adjoining country and market towns, by very good roads. The lands are extensive, and well known to be the best paflure and arable grounds in that country; are completely inclosed and fubdivided with fufficient flone dykes; have good farm-houses, and plenty of fuel. The mansion-house good farm-houses, and plenty of fuel. The mansion-house lies in a most romantic situation, and adjacent to it there is a quantity of valuable full-grown wood, estimated at 120 l The natural woods are of very great extent, stretching about two miles alongit the water of Mossat. Above ten-years ago, they were sold for 1300 l. Sterling, have since been inclosed mostly with a stone dyke, and the vacancies planted with many thousands of young trees at a great ex-pense. The young wood is far advanced, and has a most beautiful and slourishing appearance. There is an inexhau-stible growth of the finest hazel and other underwood, fit for hoops, &c. for which there is a conftant demand. Be fore the wood was cut, the yearly produce was betwist 30 l. and 40 l.; but, as it is now inclosed, and properly taken care of, much more may be expected. Competent judges are of opinion, that in the space of a few years the woods will be more valuable than the lands.

For the encouragement of offerers, the unfet-price will be only 2000 l. and great part of the price will be allowed to remain in the purcafer's hands.

Any person wishing to purchase privately may apply to John Tait junior, writer to the signet, who has power to treat, will show the title-deeds and current leases, and inform concerning other particulars. The wood forester will flew the lands and woo
